Welcome to Equal Employment Opportunity and Diversity Fundamentals LEVEL II
University senior leadership have critical responsibilities and an often-demanding job. UNCG Human Resources Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action (EEO/AA) office is here to support you with developing and maintaining a diverse workforce and campus environment with the state-mandated diversity initiative training: Equal Employment Opportunity and Diversity Fundamentals (EEODF) LEVEL II. This course was previously referred to as the Equal Employment Opportunity Institute (EEOI).

Should I enroll in EEODF if I previously completed EEOI?
EEODF is a one-time training. Any senior leadership that have not completed EEODF (or the former EEOI) at any North Carolina state agency or institution, are required to enroll in this training. If you previously completed the former version of this course (EEOI), you are welcome to enroll in the newly revised EEODF training, however it is not mandatory.

What is required to complete EEODF Level II?
Level II participants will only complete a one-day instructor-led classroom training, which will be held at UNCG, from 8:30am to 4:30pm. There is no online instruction for Level II training.

What is included in the classroom training?
UNCG has arranged for EEODF LEVEL II to be held on campus Friday June 21, 2019 and June 23, 2019. You are only required to attend one session. The classroom training is facilitated by state-certified adjunct trainers from the North Carolina Office of State Human Resources (OSHR).

This course is designed with the latest information needed to help senior leadership understand equal employment opportunity/affirmative action laws in the context of daily work situations. The training will also provide senior leadership with applicable information such as case studies, effective hiring practices, rights and responsibilities, and inclusive practices to help you work more effectively with a diverse workforce.
