

The State of Things Live in Greensboro

Thanks so much for listening to The State of Things on WUNC!

I hope you can join us for a live broadcast of The State of Things on Tuesday, November 14, at noon. We'll be at the UpStage Cabaret at Triad Stage, 232 South Elm, Greensboro - near the International Civil Rights Museum.

Admission to the live show is free but we do ask that you let us know if you're planning to attend, since seating is limited.

If you would like to attend the show, please click the link below and fill out the form to secure your seats.

Click here to RSVP for *The State of Things* Live in Greensboro!

Here's a preview of what we'll be talking about on the show...

University Of North Carolina At Greensboro Celebrates Its 125th Year: The institution that would become the University of North Carolina at Greensboro opened its doors in 1892 to 198 young women. Today, more than 20,000 students attend class, conduct research, play sports and live in 30 residence halls on a 210-acre campus. The school has evolved not only in the students it admits - it began admitting African-Americans in 1956 and men in 1964 - but in the ways it engages the community and prepares diverse students for a changing world and workplace. We'll talk with UNCG Chancellor Franklin Gilliam Jr. and several alumni from key points in the University's history about their experiences of the school and its transformations.

If you have any questions, please call WUNC's main line at 800-962-9862, or email rsvp@wunc.org.

Thanks so much for listening to WUNC and The State of Things, and I hope to see you in Greensboro!

Frank Stasio
Host, The State of Things

---